KNUST student wins car in Unique Star Foods promo

A LEVEL 400 student of the Kwame Nkrumah University of Science and Technology (KNUST), Mr Edmund Owusu Manu, has won the grand prize of a brand new KIA saloon car valued at GH¢16,600 in the "Christmas Bonanza 2007" promotion organised by the Unique Star Foods Limited, the company marketing Vega branded products in the country.

The promotion was organised to reward valued customers of the company, and to strengthen the relationship between the company and the public with regard to the supply of quality food products to enhance the health of the people.

Speaking at the presentation ceremony, Mr Osei-Assibey Antwi, Deputy Ashanti Regional Minister, said the government was committed to the realisation of a strong economy by creating the environment for investors to put in their monies to the benefit of the country and the investor.

He expressed his gratitude to the company for their concern towards the welfare of its consumers, and the development of the country.

Mr D. P. Mohanty, Country Director of the company, said they were not only interested in profit, but also committed towards the social responsibility in the area of development of sports, education and care for disaster victims in the country.

The Marketing Manager of the company, Mr A.K. Bahali, commended the government for consistently encouraging investment in the country and said the company would continue to put out quality products.
